'THE AMTRACK TOUR'

-IT'S LIKE WOODSTOCK ALL OVER AGAIN=-

First of all, I would like Conan O'Brien to serve as my campaign manager.

Second, I want to talk to Willie Nelson, American music's grandfather.

Next, I want to get on a train, in the summer of 2011, leaving Seattle, heading east with a musical cartel of local artists, i.e. Pearl Jam, Sound Garden, Hairy Boil, and a few other headliners to be determined.

Two days later, a pre-orchestrated concert, is preformed in Minot, North Dakota, drawing approximately 100,000 people.

Of course the concert is for free.

The town on the other hand, takes in a ton of revenue: parking, camping fees, business revenues, including law enforcement activities.

Two days later, another 'free' concert is held in St. Cloud, Minnesota, drawing perhaps, 250,000 patrons. Big payday for St. Cloud.

Next it's onto Minneapolis! The Metro-Dome would be a fine venue. At a price of a minimum of $200.00 per ticket X 60,000 patrons.

Two days later, Wrigley Field, and Comminsky Park, in Chicago. Again, sold out, at the same time, with dueling venues, stadium to stadium.

At this point, we'll take a pause. The train for this route, is known as the "Empire Builder", stops here in Chicago.

Shall we go east, toward Harrisburg, and onto New York? Southeast to Cincinnati, and onto D.C.? Or, bee-line it to Naw'Orleans?

Hey Willie, I want you to call the shots. My idea, your play.

By the way Conan, "you in charge" as long as Willie agrees. Me too! MTM
